

CARRANZA WILL UPHOLD GENERAL TRAYNO'S ORDERS

BREAK WITH U. S. SEEMS UNAVOIDABLE

WASHINGTON GETS INFORMATION FROM MEXICO CITY INDICATING CARRANZA ATTITUDE HOSTILE.

REPLY STILL DELAYED

Special Agent Rogers is Unable to Say When Statement Will Be Delivered.—Charge Americans Shot Mexican.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, June 30.—Private advices reaching Washington from a reliable source in Mexico City said General Carranza and his advisers had determined to stand by the orders of General Trevino to attack American troops in Mexico moving in any direction except toward the border, and no way was seen to avoid a break with the United States.

A section of the Mexican cabinet, it was said, was urging an even more defiant attitude and wanted to include in the reply to the American request for statement of intentions a new demand for immediate withdrawal of all United States troops now on Mexican soil.

The advices did not indicate when the response from Carranza might be expected. The last word on the subject to the state department came in a message from Special Agent Rogers, who said he expected the note to be handed him Wednesday night.

Cabinet in Session.
When President Wilson met with his cabinet today, just before leaving for New York to deliver an address, the unfavorable reports had not reached him and there were practically no new developments in the Mexican crisis to be considered.

Military preparations are being rushed to completion, however, but diplomatically there is nothing to be done until Carranza's reply is received or it becomes apparent that he will not respond within a reasonable time.

Esseo Arredondo, Mexican ambassador designate, called on Mr. Lansing early today to communicate formally the information that the government has ordered the release of the American troops captured at Carrizal.

A brief talk followed during which Mr. Lansing took occasion to make it plain that the American government expected an early reply to its note forwarded to Mexico City last Sunday. The ambassador was impressed with the fact that the American government was showing impatience at the delay.

Mr. Arredondo also took up with Secretary Lansing again the question of alleged mistreatment of Mexicans on the American side of the border and asked that steps be taken to prevent further trouble of this sort.

Few Americans Quit Mexico.
On receiving the embassy, he made public a message from Mexico City, saying that although the state department had telegraphed Special Agent Rogers to warn all Americans to leave the country, the United States would not be responsible for the consequences, actually less than 300 had left Mexico City and not more than 200 had left the surrounding country.

"The greater majority of Americans in Mexico City," said the dispatch, "have elected to remain as they have been for many years, and are not one of them who has not gone out of his way to avert trouble, has ever been molested. The Mexican government has given positive guarantees for the protection of lives and property of Americans in Tabasco and Guaymas states whenever such Americans express a desire to remain and unquestionably it will be in all other portions of the republic."

In conclusion the message said: "Americans Always Safe."
"Since the beginning of international difficulties, no disposition has ever been exhibited here at any time to molest any American on account of his nationality, although those who have sought refuge here usually have been accommodated."

Official reports to the state department have shown that only a few hundred Americans are left in all Mexico. All members of the cabinet agreed after their meeting that both the situation and the policy of the United States were unchanged as the result of recent developments.

The capture of Carranza's troops has not been relieved of the critical diplomatic situation now existing.

Several reports from Special Agent Rogers referring to refugees on routine matters, did not mention the Mexican note. He has had no light to throw on the probable course Carranza would take. It is known, however, that interests in the Mexican capital which have been exerting every effort to prevent a break, are much discouraged. Should the Mexican reply follow the line indicated, and be in accordance with the United States, however, its meaning might be wrapped about with diplomatic language, there is no indication that administration would waive in its desire to continue protection of the border by military operations. President Wilson probably would arrange to lay the whole matter before congress immediately.

Guardmen whether they take a new oath or not.
Under this construction, the whole enrolled strength of the state troops now upward of 130,000, would be called into federal service without delay and be used either on the border or in Mexico.

Charge Americans Shot Mexican.
El Paso, June 30.—A Mexican line rider, belonging to the Carranza customs service, was shot and killed last night by a squad of American soldiers who fired across the Rio Grande into Mexican territory near Ysleta, twelve miles east of El Paso, according to a report received by General Gonzales in Juarez today.

Mexican officials claim the guard, named Juan Moreno, was riding along in the performance of his duty with a fellow customs guard when the Americans opened fire without warning. The survivor placed the number of Americans at eight. General Gonzales sent a complaint to General Bell. General Bell detailed officers to make an investigation. Pending receipt of their report he would not discuss the incident.

The military supplies taken in the Carrizal fight arrived in Juarez from Chihuahua this morning. General Bell arranged to take them over. They consist of twenty-seven horses, fifty-three rifles, a number of pistols, several thousand cartridges and other articles of equipment.

Troopers at Hospital.
The negro troopers of the 10th cavalry brought here from Chihuahua City remained at the hospital at Fort Bliss awaiting release when it had been proved they contracted no dangerous disease in Mexico.

They corroborated reports brought to the border and told to the Associated Press nearly a week ago that the number of Mexican dead at Carrizal was much larger than announced by General Gonzales.

Deming, N. M., June 30.—Four Villistas who took part in the Columbus raid were executed by hanging in the county jail here today.

The men were put to death in pairs. They were calm. One smoked a cigarette as the noose was adjusted. None would say anything except one named Garcia, who exclaimed as he was led to execution:

"I hope God will forgive my enemies."

This completes the disposition of the cases of the Columbus raiders. Jose Rodriguez recently was given a stay of execution, and is serving a life sentence.

"JOHN DOE" FLOODED WITH MAIL AT CAMP

Appleton Residents Having Gifts for State Guardsmen Take Example Address Literally.

Camp Douglas, June 30.—John Doe proved the most popular man at Camp Douglas, when scores of articles labeled "John Doe, G. Company, Second Infantry, N. G." arrived from Appleton for the men here today. This was due to the fact that the local papers of Appleton in advising how parcels should be addressed for the soldiers, used the John Doe as an example name. The result was that people from Appleton took the advice verbatim, addressing the parcels "John Doe, G. Company, Second Infantry, N. G." and soldiers were at a loss to know who belonged to the candy, cigars, fruit, etc., that arrived.

Edward Lutz, a recruit of "G" company, Appleton, duplicated the feat of a Milwaukee rookie by making a perfect score at the 100 yard range, the first time he had used an army rifle.

DUNNE DENIES I. N. G. NEEDS CHICAGO AID

Illinois Governor Turns Down Proposition to Permit Windy City Men to Secure Equipment.

Springfield, Ill., June 30.—Governor Dunne today declined to call a special session of the legislature to "pass bills providing for our militia to be equipped," as requested by Chicago business men and issued a statement denying that the Illinois guards are being insufficiently provided for in any detail.

Adjutant General Dixon in a report to the governor and the latter in his answer to the Chicago business men, expressed disapproval of a proposed measure to raise funds by popular subscription to furnish equipment, which under the laws of modern warfare will be furnished by the United States.

Both, however, endorsed the movement to raise funds for providing for needs of dependent families of soldiers at the front.

VILLA TROOPS KILL YANKEE GUN HANDLER

Survivor States San Antonio Resident; Enlisted in De Facto Army, Was Slain.

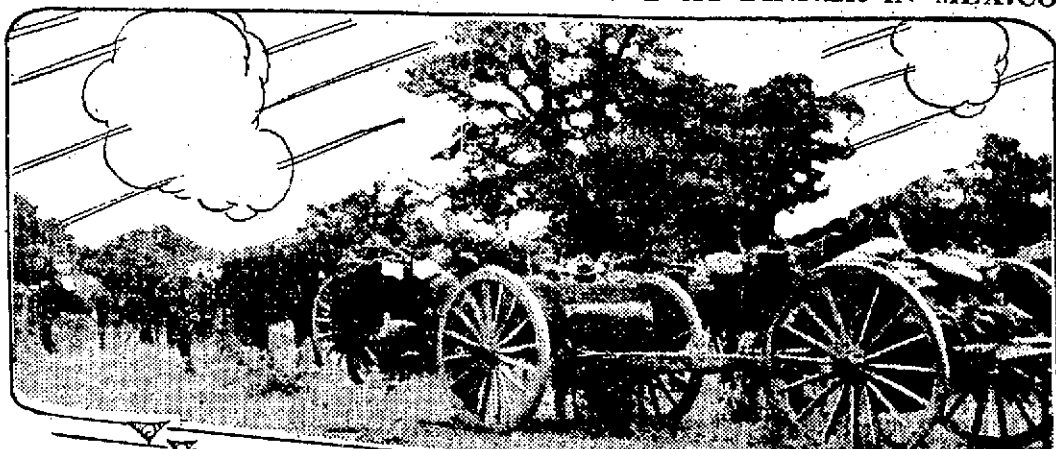

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
San Antonio, June 30.—The arrival here today of C. S. Harle, developed the first news of the death two months ago of Louis Coffey, a San Antonio resident, who was a machine gun operator in the "de facto" army. According to Harle, Coffey was taken prisoner by the Villa forces commanded by General Rodriguez. It was the leader's intention to spare his life and keep him with the command, but Villa soldiers shot him, said Harle. At the time Harle was an officer on the staff of Rodriguez.

CAPITOL "DRY" FORCE MUST BE DEE-LIGHTED

Nine Saloons Fail to Renew Licenses, Among Them Highest Famous Political Rendezvous.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Madison, June 30.—Nine saloons in Madison will serve no more eye openers and "nightcaps" after today through their failure to secure a renewal of their licenses, but sixty-four places remain in the city, licensed to conduct business.

SHOW HELMS WOODS NOT LIKELY PLACE TO COMMIT MURDER

With Engineer As Witness, Defense Proves Place Unlikely for Crime Deliberately Planned.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Waukegan, June 30.—Gale M. Brooks, a civil engineer, who said he had surveyed and mapped Helms' woods and vicinity, took the stand for the defense in the Orpet case today. His map was introduced, and he explained it at some length. One of the purposes of it was to show that the woods were not a place where a murder could have been seen in the woods from the interurban station and for that reason the woods would never have been selected for a deliberately planned murder.

James H. Wilkerson, chief counsel for the defense, said that photographs also would be introduced which would show all the way through the woods to a clear space beyond.

While the engineer was testifying, Orpet, who completed a three days' cross-examination, yesterday turned at letters, some of which reach him every day from all parts of the country. He has had them from such widely separated points as Halifax, Spokane and Tampa. Most of them are from strangers and generally express sympathy. Those received today he showed to his father and mother, who sat on either side of him.

Mr. Potter of the defense had asked if the witness (the civil engineer) had observed the number of railroad trains, interurban street cars, vehicles and persons who passed McKimley road on one side of the woods. He said he had, but was not allowed by the court to give the result of his observation.

He testified that the Three Oaks, marking the spot where Marian died, were 130 feet from McKimley road, 230 feet from Sheridan road, 280 feet from a spot marked Jones Place, and 235 feet from the interurban railroad station.

EXTRA PAY FOR MEN ACROSS THE BORDER

Washington, June 30.—Extra pay for foreign service will be allowed American troops serving across Mexican border, under decision today by Controller Warwick of the treasury. Enlisted men will receive twenty per cent additional and officers ten per cent.

The controller also gave the opinion that government employees who enlist in national guard, are entitled to full pay for their civil service commission for the first thirty days on their service, except the combined salaries of officers will be subject to the $2,000 limitation provided by law.

BRIEF LOCAL NEWS.

Given Ninety Days: Charles Lust of Edgerton, received a ninety day sentence in the municipal court this morning when he pleaded guilty to the charge of second offense drunkenness. Lust was arrested yesterday afternoon by Special Officer John Dalton at the Milwaukee railroad station. Lay Cable Today: At the creation of Mayor James F. Fether, the cable to supply the electrical current for the new lights will be laid today on Main and Milwaukee streets. The excavations will be covered as soon as the cable is laid, to prepare for storms. In case of inclement weather the brick pavements would be seriously endangered by water going under the brick.

NONE SUCH BROTHERS WILL MEET TONIGHT

Details Completed for Big Fourth Celebration Burlesque.—No Store Deliveries That Day.

Members of the None Such Bros. parade committee will hold their last meeting tonight at the Gazette library. The session this evening has primary nothing important to consider, but is called by Chairman Amerpol, who will direct his forces relative to getting off the parade on record time on Tuesday afternoon.

The Auditorium building is jammed with floats of individuals both for the afternoon and for the parade in the evening. Members of the Daughters of Isabella and of the Rebekahs are decorating elaborate floats, and these two in particular will be commendable displays during the night parade. Other organizations are also to participate.

The delivery system wagons are to be used during the afternoon and will be decorated appropriately during the morning of the Fourth. No deliveries are to be made on this day and Mrs. O'Huswille accordingly is advised to secure her independence day necessities on Monday, unless she wishes to carry them home with her. All stores are to be closed during the afternoon.

FACES CHARGE OF SELLING TO MINOR

South Janesville, Saloonkeeper Has Trial in Municipal Court This Afternoon.

Frank Williams, a South Janesville saloonkeeper, was on trial in the municipal court this afternoon on the charge of selling intoxicating liquor to a minor in violation of the state law. Evidence was taken before a jury of six men. The first and only witness for the state was Harry Rockford, who testified that he secured liquor at Williams' place on Saturday, June 17, between eleven o'clock at night and midnight. Williams was the first witness called for the defense. District Attorney Dunwiddie prosecuted the case. E. H. Ryan is Williams' attorney.

Miss Mae McCue entertained at her home, 915 Benton avenue, Wednesday evening, at a seven o'clock dinner in honor of Miss Gertrude Bradley, who is to be a July bride.

THINK COLORED MAN KILLED IN DANE CO. IS FORMER RESIDENT

Local Significance Seen in Accidental Death of Negro Near Madison Wednesday Afternoon.

Grant Wells, also known as Grant Taylor and thought to be the son of Enoch Taylor, colored, of Detroit, a former Janesville truck gardener, was accidentally killed in the town of Westport, Dane county, near Madison, yesterday. Taylor or Wells, was an employee of a farmer named Jay O'Malley. He was engaged in hauling water for a tobacco pester at the time and had alighted to place a box on the wagon. He attempted to climb on his seat again, slipped and fell, the horse became frightened and ran, the wagon overturned and Taylor was killed.

According to what O'Malley told the coroner, the colored man had worked for him for about a month. He was forty-five years of age and unmarried. If the unfortunate man is Grant Taylor, then he was well known in Janesville. His father, previously moving to Detroit some years ago, owned an extensive and rich truck farm a short distance outside the city limits on Milton avenue. Grant was a good character and was known on every hand.

The coroner found in the pockets of the dead man a bank book which showed that Aug. 6, 1915, he deposited $5,000 in the Stoughton State bank. The following January he withdrew the balance and last February he took the balance out of the bank. The bank book contains the name of Grant Taylor. Wells is supposed to have relatives or friends in Stoughton. He informed that he also lived in Madison before he went to work on the O'Malley farm.

Henry White, 117 North Washington street, custodian at the Northwestern depot has been in communication with the elder Taylor since the latter left here. When informed of the accident and learning that the whereabouts of the colored man were unknown by Dane county authorities, he immediately wired Mr. Taylor at Detroit.

EXECUTE MURDERER TODAY AT SING SING

Man Who Shot Two Policemen and Became Crazy in Death Cell, Killing Guard, Is Executed.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Sing Sing, N. Y., June 30.—Orestes Shillitani was executed in the state prison this morning for the murder three years ago of two New York policemen who were attempting to arrest him for killing a third man in a quarrel about a girl.

Shillitani made no pretense of insanity during his trial, but became apparently crazed with terror in the death house a few weeks ago when two other prisoners were executed.

PAPER MILL STRIKE REMAINS UNCHANGED

Appleton, June 30.—The strike of papermakers in Interlake Pulp & Paper company's mills and Riverside Fiber & Paper company's mills remains unchanged, but tonight a general mass meeting of every union in the city is to be held, at which time it is thought that union men out on the strike will urge the co-operation of all unions in the city in an endeavor to force the paper interests to print their demands, recognition of the union. Trouble is anticipated and extra policemen have been assigned to duty.

TERRIFIC ATTACKS IN VERDUN SECTOR HALTED BY FRENCH

First Line French Trench Is Captured and Recaptured at Hill 304.—Germans Attack Avocourt Wood.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

In a terrific attack upon the French positions east of Hill 304, in the Verdun sector, the Germans captured a fortified works in the first line of the French trenches, after the garrison had been literally buried under a storm of shells.

The position was recaptured by a brilliant counterattack, according to an official statement issued by the French war office today.

The Germans also delivered a powerful attack on the French positions in Avocourt wood, west of Hill 304, but all their efforts are declared to have been checked with heavy losses to the attackers. Considerable activity is reported on the front from Neuport to the Aisne.

Germans Repulse Attacks.
Berlin, June 30.—Attacks by the British and French at various places along the western front yesterday and last night were repulsed by German troops, the war office announced today.

CLEMENCY IS URGED FOR ROGER CASEMENT

Influential British Newspaper Says Death Penalty Should Be Commuted "For Sake of the New Ireland."

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

London, June 30.—The Manchester Guardian, one of the most influential papers in the country, makes a direct plea for clemency for Sir Roger Casement. While admitting no other sentence but that of death could have been pronounced by the court, the Guardian says:

"Casement was a fanatic and his crimes, like those of many other fanatics, are free from the taints of sordidness and weakness. The death penalty will do nothing to kill such dreams as his. Rather, it will give them life."

"For the sake of the new Ireland, which we hope to see, it is a moment for clemency."

An indirect plea for mercy is made by other papers on the ground that the execution of Casement would not assist in the cause of the Irish problem.

Resolution Urges Clemency.
Washington, June 30.—A resolution requesting the president to ask the British government for stay of execution in the case of Sir Roger Casement, leader convicted of treason yesterday in London, pending presentation of new facts, was introduced in the House today by Senator Martin of New Jersey. Immediate consideration was sought, but on insistence of Senator Stone it was referred to the foreign relations committee.

Mr. Martin introduced the resolution at the request of Mrs. Agnes Newman, Casement's sister, who came here early today from New York. Newman hoped to have an audience with President Wilson, but he was leaving for New York and could not see her.

WORKERS PETITION PRICE REGULATION

Trades Union Congress in London Asks Government to Regulate Price of Food and Fuel.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, June 30.—A special trades union congress of 600 delegates, representing 600,000 organized workers, met in London today and adopted a resolution asking the government to take steps to regulate the prices of food and fuel. The resolution expresses the view that price regulation could be enforced only by a department of the government with power to commandeer and distribute food and fuel, and to requisition home grown crops, and establish standard prices for fuel.

The mover of the resolution said prices had been increased 50 per cent owing largely to the rise in freights and greater cost of coal.

The congress also adopted an alternative resolution in favor of government requisitioning of food and fuel, and shipping. Still another resolution declares that if the government objects to the proposals of the congress, immediate steps will be taken to force the government to take such steps as are necessary to maintain a proper standard of living.

The congress also adopted a resolution asking for an increase of 50 per cent in the age pensions during the period of high prices.

ASK SECRECY IN ROUTING OF MILITIA

SECRETARY OF WAR ORDERS EXTRA PRECAUTIONS TO PREVENT TRAIN SCHEDULES BEING KNOWN.

FEAR TRAIN WRECKERS

Plots of Such Tactics Are Rumored as Being Possible on the Part of Mexican Spies.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
San Antonio, June 30.—While thousands of national guardsmen were moving over converging lines today toward border stations, extraordinary precautions were being taken to prevent exact routings and schedules of numerous special trains from becoming widely known.

General Funston was instructed by the secretary of war to exercise the utmost precaution in concealing details of the mobilization. General managers of all railroads carrying troops have been requested not to make public the movements of trains.

To Avoid Wrecks.
It was explained at headquarters that the unusual measure to prevent the news of just where the American troops were in Mexico, from reaching the Mexican border, but to render more difficult any attempt that might be made to wreck any of the trains.

Information obtained by the intelligence officers has indicated such an attempt might be made. Train wrecking either by removal of rails or by the use of dynamite is so common a weapon in Mexico, both by the bandit organizations and the government forces, that the general staff at Washington and the military scouts taken prisoners in the engagements.

Relief Felt at Border.
El Paso, June 30.—Tension which has gripped the border since Carrizal encounter relaxed perceptibly today as result of the safe return to American soil of the twenty-three troopers of the 10th cavalry and the American scouts taken prisoners in the engagement.

Central Guards Ready.
Chicago, June 30.—Progress of preparing national guardsmen in the central department of the United States for the border reached final stages today, according to reports received at headquarters of Major General Barry.

In Missouri, Kansas, Illinois, Indiana and Michigan, the work of mustering in the troops is progressing rapidly. Reported in Wisconsin, Iowa, Dakota, Ohio, Michigan, Minnesota, while in Wyoming and South Dakota, preparations are being prepared for muster.

Utah Guards at Nogales.
Nogales, Ariz., June 30.—The Utah national guard battery of field artillery, 42nd, and six officers arrived here today.

CHATELLE DECLARES NOVICE DRIVER WAS CAUSE OF ACCIDENT

Darlington Young Man, Experienced as Demonstrator, Excited "Killed"

Engine on Crossing.

A. D. Chatelle, Warren, Ill., former Janesville business man, the only one of the party of six to escape death Wednesday afternoon when their automobile was demolished by a broken boiler, broken bones in the right hand and in addition, bad scalp lacerations and extensive skin ruptures of the right hand and arm were no symptoms of internal injuries were no symptoms of internal injuries.

About the inexperience of a novice automobile demonstrator lies the cause of the accident, Chatelle says. He was driving a car, the only one of the party of six to escape death Wednesday afternoon when their automobile was demolished by a broken boiler, broken bones in the right hand and in addition, bad scalp lacerations and extensive skin ruptures of the right hand and arm were no symptoms of internal injuries were no symptoms of internal injuries.

He relates he noticed that Howe was inexperienced in the manipulation of the motor control and as they approached the crossing, Chatelle says he advised Howe to stop and wait until the crossing was clear. He said he saw the train coming and that he had plenty of time to stop. The young man sped up the engine. "Has he known how to stop the engine after he had started forward faster I would have said," Chatelle said.

Howe approached the crossing slowly and would have succeeded in crossing it had the engine of the machine not been killed by him.

Mr. Chatelle stated that the boy evidently became stricken with fright when on the crossing and in his attempt to get across, stopped the engine. The train was bearing down fast upon the auto and when the car stopped it was impossible for them to alight and get to a place of safety.

He said every occupant of the car knew that death was near.

People arriving in close proximity to the scene of the accident (it was just outside the corporation limits of Warren) stated that the attention was attracted by the screaming and the party at death approached them. Several were eye witnesses of the accident. H. L. Miller, a traveling salesman with a car, was also near the wreck scene. The machine, a large seven passenger, which Deery proposed to buy, was but a heavy compact mass of fragments mounded together in the turning and twisting process by the locomotive pilot before the fast train could be jerked to a standstill through the use of its emergency brakes.

Questions of Man— Replies by God

By REV. B. B. SUTCLIFFE
Extension Department Moody Bible
Institute of Chicago

TEXT—Only believe.—Mark 5:36.

Suppose a minister is preaching on the word "believe." A member of the audience suddenly begins to ask question and the minister answers in words from the Scripture. The first question is: Whom Am I to Believe?

"If we receive the witness of man the witness of God is greater: for this is the witness of God which he hath testified of his son." I John 5:9. It is not the church, nor the minister, nor any company of men the sinner is to believe, but it is God himself as he speaks concerning his son. There might possibly be some hesitation in believing what man would say, but there can be no hesitation in accepting the testimony of such a credible witness as God. The sinner is asked to believe none except the God of the Scriptures. Then another question is immediately asked, viz:

What Am I to Believe?

God's own answer to this is "be that believeth not God hath made him a liar; because he believeth not the record that God gave his son. And this is the record that God hath given to us eternal life, and this life is in his son." I John 3:10, 11. That record is the gospel concerning God's son, Jesus Christ, who was delivered for our offenses, who died for our sins according to the Scriptures, who his own self bare our sins in his own body on the tree, and who was raised from the dead the third day according to the Scriptures. This is what God declares concerning his son, and this is what the sinner must believe in order to have God's gift of eternal life. I am to believe, on the authority of God's own testimony, that Christ died for my sins and that he rose from the dead and ever liveth to make intercession for me.

The questioner asks a third question, viz:

Why Am I to Believe?

Because God commands it. "And this is his commandment, that we should believe on the name of his son, Jesus Christ." I John 3:23. Again, because a refusal to believe is the same as calling God a liar—"he that believeth not God hath made him a liar." I John 5:10. Again because it is the only way to please God—"for without faith it is impossible to please him," Heb. 11:6. Again because the refusal to believe seals one's own doom. "He that believeth shall be saved and he that believeth not shall be damned," Mk. 16:16.

Still another question is asked, viz:

God's answer to this question is very direct, for he says, "Now is the accepted time, behold today is the day of salvation." II Cor. 6:2. Again, he says, "Today if ye will hear his voice harden not your heart." Heb. 3:7. We are continually warned not to procrastinate. "Doubt not thyself of tomorrow for thou knowest not what a day may bring forth." Prov. 27:1. "Not today" has brought many a soul to cry "Too late." Many will seek to enter in and shall not be able when once the master of the house has risen up and hath shut to the door." Mk. 13:24, 25. Not tomorrow, but today is your day of salvation.

Another question is then asked, viz:

May I Believe as I Am?

God answers this by saying, "Him that cometh unto me I will in no wise cast out." John 6:37. "To him that believeth not but believeth on him that sent him the ungodly his faith is counted for righteousness." Rom. 4:5. Again he says, "Whoever will may come and take of the water of life freely." Rev. 22:17. The only class who can be saved is sinners. If one waits to become good before believing that, he will never be saved. The sinner must believe just as he is—good, bad or indifferent.

Another question is asked, viz:

Can I Be Saved If I Don't Believe?

Can I Be Saved If I Don't Believe?

Can I Be Saved If I Don't Believe?

PAUL AT THESSALONICA AND BEREIA.

Thessalonica was named for the daughter of Philip of Macedonia who in turn received her name because she was born on the day her father conquered Thessaly. Some hundred students of history may know that, but a hundred million know of the city, because it is mentioned in Acts. The fame of this commercial and imposing metropolis depends not so much upon its association with Philip, Alexander, or Cassander, as with Paul, Silas, and Timothy.

How ignoble the entrance of the latter! The backs of two of them were still corrugated by the ignominious beating they had received at Philippi. The other was an immature youth from the rude "Wolfand." The kingdom of heaven was coming of a truth unobscured. But it was coming, for these wayfaring men represented moral ideas and forces destined to conquer a larger world than Alexander dreamed of, and to conquer it for all time. The weapons of their warfare were not carnal. But they were mighty enough to pull down the strongholds of pagan religion and philosophy, and finally the pagan empire itself.

The missionaries' advent seemed unfavorable. Families were prevailing. Bread-stuffs had advanced to six times their common price. But Paul's trade, which in his affluent days as a young Sanhedrist he never dreamed he would use, stood him well in hand now, the tentmaker as an indispensable in the East as the carpenter is with us. By his independent self-support Paul could prove his disinterestedness beyond cavil. He sought "them," not "them," but a suffering Messiah. He traced the Via Dolorosa through all the prophets. Opening it up in one scroll after another, he set forth in argument the necessity for and the substitutional character of the death of Christ. The unprejudiced proselytes easily apprehended the truth. A goodly company of them came in their fortunes with the new faith and its heroic ambassadors. But some of them were of a different class, whose hearts were veiled to such a Messiah as Moses himself described, availed themselves of mob violence, always the last resort of a failing cause. It was Hebrew policy to play one enemy against another. They hated Rome superlatively. But they could affect undying loyalty to Caesar on a moment's notice. If so doing they could imitate the young religion, which was fast writing "ichabod" upon their ecclesiastical establishment.

It was a fixed policy of Roman rulers in the provinces to hush up a tumult at the very start. Report at Rome of even an incipient insurrection made further tenure of office precarious for any governor. Quick, and in this instance, effectual measures were taken. Had the storm fallen upon Paul in person, he would have borne the brunt of it with his characteristic heroism. But he would not unnecessarily subject his friend and host to persecution. He would not make Jason forfeit his bond. In order that the peace might be kept he departed. But he had staid long enough to lay the foundation of a Church, to which he afterward addressed the first apostolic epistle that ever came from his pen.

THE TEACHER'S LANTERN.

Strange things are happening in the country St. Paul visited so long ago. Airships float in the clouds and submarines beneath the Aegean Sea. But even the war of today does not eclipse that assault which the little band of missionaries here made upon the stronghold of paganism. Opposition is not the worst thing in the world. The boy's life does not rise unless the wind blows against it. St. Paul even numbers opposition with advantages when he says that at a certain place he had opened to him "a great door and many adversaries." The points thought to be most vulnerable in Luke's history are the very ones which illustrate his persistent accuracy. If he had batted a book with this uncommon word "politeia" ruler of the city, he could not have caught his critics more cleverly. A fragment from Thessalonica is in the British Museum, on which is the title "politeia," with the names of seven of the wearers of that singular appellation.

In this instance of his exhortation the words of exhortation in Cyprus, Chios, and Jerusalem, Asia, and in Ephesus, and praetors and dictors in Philippi, and one realizes he is following an historian who had a conscience in his work. This is the writer who affirmed himself to have a perfect understanding of all things (relating to Christianity) from the first, and whose purpose was to set them forth in an orderly manner. This important knowledge with certitude, thus an historian is as credible as Napoleon. What associations are here! In this region Aristotle was born (Stagira). Here he taught the boy Alexander. (Pella.) Here Cleopatra was an exile for seven months. Euripides was born at Salamis, famous also as the scene of the greatest naval battle of antiquity in which the Greeks defeated the Persians. But none of these circumstances can compare in width and permanence of effect to what Paul did here. He rescued out of the Scriptures, a clock-work Christian. He had a certain way of doing things. His manner was to go to the synagogue. The Berean Hebrews were more ingenious than the Thessalonians, because they candidly tested Paul's doctrine by the Scriptures, and were willing to abide by the result.

Unquestioned authority affirms that Christianity accounts for the regeneration of the Greeks which the historical traces at the end of the third century. The power was the greater because it worked from below upward. It improved moral conditions by elevating the common view of life, infused earnestness into character, purified domestic relations, penetrated to the very springs of action.

July 2, 1916. 1 Peter II 1-10 HOW TO MAKE OURS AN IDEAL NATION

The original copy of the Declaration of American Independence with all its historic signatures, although prized and guarded, has been steadily fading with the lapse of years until now it is practically only a bit of blank paper. That is to be regretted, but after all it is not an irreparable loss, for the principles of the Declaration are still potent. They have passed into the life of the people and into the law of the land. That is more important far than merely preserving the legibility of the original instrument. It is the principles of the Declaration worked out and lived up to that makes America the ideal nation of the world. In the reconstruction which should come at the end of the world-war, American democracy with its civil and religious liberty, its universal franchise and representative government, its freedom from militarism and greed of empire, should commend itself for universal adoption. For that reason the principles of the Declaration should shine with unworldly lustre in this night of years. He who darkens them for selfish ends is not a traitor to America alone, but to the human race as well.

A word to the wise—to those who keep alive the spirit of the Declaration, our word for it, they'll surely pay.

AGRICULTURAL and GARDEN DEPT

ALLEN B. WEST, Director

Question—I have two pieces of alfalfa. One of them is badly blighted. What shall I do with it? It was sown this year and stands up six or eight inches high. There is a fine stand of alfalfa.

Answer—The best remedy is to cut the alfalfa, rake up and take it off the field. The second crop is not likely to be a trouble. It resists the disease better as it grows older. The trouble is leaf spot, a fungus disease which develops under favorable conditions for its growth.

Question—I have a field of alfalfa that I sowed in April. I have a good stand of alfalfa and weeds too. What do you advise with reference to the weeds?

Answer—A later sowing of the alfalfa with thorough cultivation of the ground at intervals previous to sowing would have disposed of the weeds. Now set your mower high and clip them. Do not allow them to seed. Repeated cutting will probably discourage them so that they will eventually disappear.

Question—I have an old asparagus bed that has been much neglected and is full of weeds. What can I do to improve it, or would you advise setting a new bed?

Answer—I cannot answer from experience, but I would recommend that you remove the bed thoroughly with well-rotted manure and then cultivate it. If it is set deep enough so that you will not injure the crowns. Destroy all the weeds and loosen up the soil. As asparagus needs a good dressing, it will also make a good dressing. In addition to manure. One market garden-er claims that there is especial value in manure from the blacksmith shop for asparagus. I have one hill of asparagus that has come up of itself about a gooseberry bush which was heavily mulched with coal ashes to keep down the weeds. This hill has especially fine stalks. It may be that coal ashes are a benefit to this plant, which is also fond of salt. After cultivation let the tops grow but pick off the berries, so that the strength of the plant may not be spent in maturing seed. In the fall manure again. If the stalks are small next spring, it might be well to avoid cutting until another spring, but fertilize and cultivate as directed above.

The asparagus bed is a good place to empty the brine from the ice cream freezer. It kills the weeds and benefits the asparagus.

Question—Do you advise the use of hay caps for alfalfa? I notice some use them and some do not. How should they be made?

Answer—Hay caps are certainly to be advised in this locality unless one is raising alfalfa on so large a scale he can afford special machine for handling it. I know of no one in Rock county who is doing this. In the west where alfalfa is grown by irrigation and in regions where there is less rain, caps are not necessary, but here, especially in June, it is almost impossible to get alfalfa in without showers intervening between cutting and hauling. Many claim, too, that the hay is of much better quality when cured under cap. This is true under certain conditions. It is important that it be cured in such a way as not to become brittle for then handling it will break off the leaves, which contain the larger proportion of the digestible materials. The caps are made from squares of cotton sheeting. It is not necessary to hem them, but they should be fifty inches square. Many use smaller ones, 40x40, but the writer's preference is for the larger ones. In order to secure the caps, No. 9 brace wire is cut into 16-inch lengths and each length fastened to a corner of the cap by the following method. With a pair of stout pliers one end is bent back upon itself to form a stout hook. The point of each cap is folded back two inches, the folded edges joined together and the point thus formed turned back as before and the edges folded again. This makes a bunch upon which the hook is placed and with pliers is pressed down, securing the wire firmly without danger of tearing the cap. The other end of the wire is bent into a hook about two inches long and two inches across and this is hooked into the hay in the cock to hold the caps secure.

AMSTERDAM WILL HOLD ANNUAL EXHIBITION FAIRS

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.) Amsterdam, Netherlands, June 30.—Annual fairs, on the lines of those at Leipzig, Nishni Novgorod, London and Lyons, are to be held at Amsterdam, (for Holland) and at Soerabaya for the Netherlands East Indies, according to plans set on foot by the International Export Syndicate that has been founded for the purpose at Amsterdam. It is intended to establish "sale palaces" in these centers, where manufacturers and dealers may exhibit their products the whole year round.

Sure. "Do you think we need a new national anthem?" "What's the matter with the old one?" "Nobody seems to remember the words. Now, if we had a song all the vaudeville artists would sing, we couldn't help learning it."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS.
In sending change of address for your paper be sure to give the present address as well as the new one. This will insure better and quicker service.

The publication of Obituary Notices, Resolutions, and other notices of a public nature is a service rendered by the Janesville Gazette. The charges for such notices are as follows: For one insertion, 10 cents; for two insertions, 20 cents; for three insertions, 30 cents; for four insertions, 40 cents; for five insertions, 50 cents; for six insertions, 60 cents; for seven insertions, 70 cents; for eight insertions, 80 cents; for nine insertions, 90 cents; for ten insertions, 1.00.

The Gazette does not knowingly accept advertising or other notices of a public nature. Every advertisement is subject to the discretion of the publisher. The publisher reserves the right to refuse to accept any advertising or other notices of a public nature which he deems to be of a character or of a nature which would reflect unfavorably upon the Gazette or its circulation.

THE EXTREMES.

The extremes to which the press of the anti-administration forces go in seeking to belittle the work of the governor is aptly illustrated in the following editorial from the Madison Democrat which gives an illustration of the kind of doctrine the ultra progressives would have the public believe about men who are doing their duty and seeking to protect the public from the grasp of the "tax-eaters" who would increase state taxes for their own experimental problems no matter what the result or why pays for them. The Democrat says:

"A local evening paper, in an editorial addressed to the class of 1916 of the university, said on Monday:

"The class of 1916 has been privileged to see a governor of this university masquerading as a friend of this university while on the campaign stump talking only as an enemy of the university can talk. He declared in his campaign two years ago that this university had run big business long enough and that now big business was going to run the university. By big business he meant special privilege—business that thrives upon legislative favor, the very thing from which the builders of this nation fought to free us. . . . They declare that they did not want a state run by a university, that they wanted a university run by the state. Imagine a university run by a state represented by a man like Emanuel L. Philipp! The mere thought of it is intellectually nauseating."

"Which calls to mind two pictures. One is of a man propped up in pillows, racked with pain, who has taxed his strength far beyond the limit prescribed by his physicians, who has turned aside the ministrations of his nurses, in order that his state may be one of the first on the firing line since the nation has called its citizen soldiers to arms. While he slowly and with great effort fixes his signature—a signature which has always been good—to the proclamation which calls the state militia to the colors, he sighs with a thought of what his action may mean to some of the mothers and sisters and daughters of the boys who are going to Camp Douglas. In another part of the picture he masters tired nerves and brain to read the order from the president, and closes a long day with a consultation with the head of the militia to be sure that the boys get the best of treatment while in camp. The man in this picture does not know a university training. He is a graduate of the University of Hard Knocks. He has made his way through his own efforts and his word is as good as his bond. He has come to be governor of a state, an exalted position, yet he is the same man he was when he taught a country school, kindly, thoughtful of others, with a memory for old faces and old friends and the incidents of childhood and his early struggles. In this picture he has just given some of his heart's blood, much of his strength, and has put further ahead the day when he will be able to leave his hospital cot. He has done this because he is that kind of a man."

"Look at the other picture. An editorial office of a man, young enough to be serving in the ranks of the militia which is mobilizing at his door, pacing the floor to dictate an editorial to the class of 1916. A man presumed to be highly educated, conversing with every breath that he is a university man, looking down every minute upon those who have not had the same opportunity. At the moment that the governor is giving needed strength to his state and nation, this younger man is dictating sentences quoted above, which everybody who knows the facts knows are untrue, as false as sin, and he is writing them for young minds and young hearts justifying them into the world and being impressed by the things they see and hear and by the things they see and hear and by the things they see and hear."

"If these pictures were to be flashed upon the screen, which would you choose if you were to take the leading part?"

CIVIC PRIDE.

There should be sufficient civic pride on the part of property-owners to trim their own trees and shrubs so they do not hang down over the walks or roadways without waiting for the city officials to give them orders to do so, or even to send men to do it for them. Many handsome homes, with well-kept lawns and flowers, and trailing vines really spoil the effect by failing to trim their trees so they do not annoy pedestrians. It is true the wet weather this spring has caused the foliage to increase at a remarkable rate, but this is no plausible excuse for the property-owners to neglect their duty to the public. Care of the walks and gutters—keeping them clean and free of rubbish is also an essential that is many times neglected. Of course the city has its street force of workmen who do much of this work, but individual property-owners could do their share without serious inconvenience and help keep up the appearance of the city as a whole.

THE REST ROOM.

The ladies of the City Federation have at last succeeded in securing a location at least temporarily, for their rest room for women visitors. It is located in the Myers theatre building on East Milwaukee street and will be opened to the public the first of the coming week. A capable matron has been secured and the ladies are to be congratulated upon their perseverance in overcoming all sorts of obstacles in the way of finding a location. While the present room is merely an experiment, it is expected that it will quickly demonstrate its worth and become a permanent feature of the civic life. Meanwhile the ladies deserve much credit.

There appears to be a sentiment in many parts of the county that the office of sheriff of this coming term should not be given to a Line City resident. For many years it has been the custom to elect one Beloit man after another sheriff of the county and some of the other aspirants would like their innings once in a while they claim.

July Fourth, if the weather is good, will bring to Janesville thousands of visitors. The mayor has wisely made provisions for their convenience in viewing the afternoon parade by insuring an order that no vehicles be parked on Main or Milwaukee streets during the time the parade passes, so the pedestrians can have a chance to enjoy the sights. It is a good move and one that will be appreciated.

Good hot days are fine corn weather, but some way or other lots of people complain about the heat. They feel just as the young man did who asked his wife's friend how her mother stood the heated term when the venerable lady in question had been dead for some weeks.

The government officials announce that during the present trouble with Mexico there will be no repetition of the disasters of the war with Spain when thousands died from typhoid, insufficient food and through ignorance of their officers how to better their conditions. The assurances are good news if they are true.

July twelfth will witness the gathering in Madison of the cohorts of the conservative republicans of the state. They will make recommendations for candidates for a republican state ticket that will be worth the average voter's careful consideration.

Warnings are issued against trespassing on the railroad tracks, but it isn't any more dangerous than trespassing on some of the public streets where automobiles are speeding.

Next in line of entertainment is the Janesville chautauqua that has a most promising program that should delight the audiences that will doubtless throng the grounds.

The present situation in Mexico seems to be that there are thirty-seven men on bases, fifteen strikes and eighteen balls, no one out, and everyone is umpire.

The girls are now preparing for long, rough walks in the country by laying in supplies of delicate white shoes with high and tapering heels.

Some men first began to realize the horrors of war when they learned the supply of Turkish cigarettes was interfered with.

It is much safer to make charges against a man's character than against the power of his automobile.

On the Spur of the Moment

ROY K. MOULTON

SPUR OF THE MOMENT. . . . CAN'T BLAME HIM. He got aboard the car and chose an isolated place. And guarded well the basket that he held upon his knees. Regarding with suspicion every new arrival's face. And grew extremely nervous when the crowd began to squeeze. He held his treasure closely, watching over it with care. It was not a bunch of jewels or a string of pearls. And he was not custodian of stocks and bonds so rare. But he was only taking home a pound of steak that night.

Another Diplomatic Entanglement. Mrs. Jude Johnson has lost seven cents during the last three years, says the Atchison Globe, and has always blamed their untimely deaths on her husband, who hates cats as much as Bryan hates a musket. The last cat died four days ago. One morning last week, and Mrs. Johnson is very indignant. "However," she said to reporter, "if my husband will disavow the act we will not sever diplomatic relations." After Mrs. Johnson had made her statement the reporter went to Jude's favorite curbside to get a statement from Jude, and the statement follows: "So Mrs. Johnson demands a disavowal, does she? Well, I'll promptly disavow. I know of no thing easier than disavowing, but if she brings another detested on our premises it will become necessary for me to disavow again, by gravity."

FROM THE PEWAMO NEWS. A California man has given the leading university in his state a pearl that is said to be three million years old. That settles it. We are now convinced there is one thing in this world older than the Grand Trunk depot at Pewamo.

A Belting editor has invented a water wheel, which goes to show that sometimes editors know just as much about water as the rest of the folks do.

A fellow was asking us the other day how it was that Dante could write so entertainingly about hell, when he never had been there. That's easy. When Dante was a young man he wrote a newspaper for four years in a town about the size of Pewamo.

RARE DISCRIMINATION. A thin little man entered one of the stores recently and quietly seated himself on a convenient chair, says the Times. "Okla. Tribune. One of the clerks approached and asked if

ELECTING A PRESIDENT

George Washington Elected First President in 1789.

WASHINGTON. THE first presidents were chosen by electors who were chosen by the legislatures of the various states. The person having the majority of these electors was declared president. The person having the next greatest number was declared vice president.

The first election took place on Jan. 7, 1789, in the states that had ratified the constitution. The electors chose the president on Feb. 4, 1789. The vote, counted on April 6, 1789, was:

George Washington, 69; John Adams, 34; Samuel Huntington, 2; John Jay, 9; John Hancock, 4; R. H. Harrison, 6; George Clinton, 3; John Rutledge, 3; John Milton, 2; James Armstrong, 1; Edward Telfair, 1; Benjamin Lincoln, 1. Ten states voted, but there is no record of the popular vote.

In the election of 1792 Washington received 132 votes and Adams 77.

(Watch for the election of Adams in 1796 in our next issue.)

GUARDSMEN PLEASED TO RECEIVE PAPERS

Package of Gazettes Enjoyed by Boys at Camp Douglas.—Agnew Writes Interesting Camp Gossip.

Newspapers, including the Gazette, are enjoyed by the guardsmen at Camp Douglas, according to Russell Agnew, Company G, first regiment, who writes to L. E. Bookout, circulation manager of the Gazette, thanking him for papers. Agnew gives some interesting gossip of the mobilization camp.

"I received your papers and want to thank you for the same. We receive the Madison papers, but the Gazette is a welcome paper, not only by me, but the rest of the boys, too."

"Today Wednesday has been a quiet one. This morning we had our federal exams and there were about twelve or thirteen who did not pass. They leave for home about Saturday. The government exam is a pretty stiff one. Yesterday (Tuesday) we all received a 'shot in the arm' for typhoid and some of the boys are pretty sick. I had mine and my arm is rather sore. We have two more to take yet."

"We hear that we are to go to the border Friday, but guess we will not get away before next week. We have not received our government issue of clothes yet. They talk about being ready for war, this is a good sample of it. If we do not go to the border this is good training for us. Young Gas was made Major Garlick's orderly. 'I was out on the range and fired five shots at 200 yards rapid fire and made two bull's eyes and three fours, which made me a score of 22, which is good. It is the first I have fired since '08, while in the navy."

The evening mail has just arrived and everyone is on the run. Today I received a call from some Janesville friends and was glad to see them. Last Sunday I met M. Jeffris and had a long talk with him. Last night we received one cigar, a package of Bull Durham and a plug of chewing tobacco. Today we received a pocket searchlight, a package of cigarettes and a box of writing paper and pencils. They are sent to us from people in Madison. They have a club there that looks out for our wants."

The men have a lot of fun at all times. They have ball games, boxing and wrestling."

DAWGUNNIT The Weather Man's Pup

he wished to purchase anything. "Oh, no," said the man, "I just dropped in for a few minutes." After half an hour had passed the manager asked what could be done for him. "Why nothing, that I know of," said the man. "You see, I have nervous prostration and the doctor told me to stay in a place. Nothing that you do not advertise, I thought this would be about the quietest place I could find."

A HAIR—OWING TALE

Sim McCarthy, who runs the village drug store up at Mt. Pleasant is having trouble of his own these days all because some careless cuss walked in and knocked a bottle of hair restorer off on the floor, and according to the local paper Sim has had to use a lawn mower on the pine boards every day for a week now in order to keep the hair restorer down enough to allow him to get around. It is wait on the village folks when they came in for a package of epsom or a postage stamp.—Pewamo News.

LA MARCA

A sporty looking man with a black mustache and a nervous smile entered and inquired: "Have you anything that will make a bee horse run faster?" "I have," said old man Drugg. "Fly-ixis. My own invention."

"I'll trouble you for some, please."

"No trouble at all—five dollars a capsule," said old man Drugg, pointing to a sign that read: "Drugs."

And the stranger bought a capsule and departed.

That same evening he returned, in rather more of a hurry and with his nervous smile even more pronounced. "Did it work?" asked old man Drugg. "Did it work?" repeated the sporty one. "My horse kept on going like a streak of buttered lightning in a straight line over the fence. Give me two capsules of that stuff, please. I'll have to catch that animal."

California Like Iceland. California, covering almost ten degrees of latitude, lies well within the warm temperate zone, with conditions of temperature conducive to a luxuriant vegetation. The state is peculiarly isolated, as the high mountains and deserts to the east offer an impassable barrier to plants from the Atlantic side of the continent, while to the south are the deserts of Mexico and Lower California, and on the west lie the shores of the Pacific. The state thus has many of the characteristics of an oceanic island.

Wouldn't Care Anyway. "I see where a judge has decided that to tickle a mule on the hind leg is contributory negligence." "I shouldn't think a man who did that would care by the time the decision was given what it was."

Freak Lightning Strikes. There is an instance on record of a couple of men who were traveling in the Vosges mountains. They rushed for trees to escape the pelting, driving rain. A stroke of lightning knocked them senseless, and it was thought on first examination that they were dead. The best attention and care were given them, and they survived, but on the back of each, extending to the thighs, was the imprint of leaves of a lime tree.

SUMMER CLUB HOLDS MEETING THURSDAY AT EMERALD GROVE

Delightful Dinner Served and Excellent Program Enjoyed—Theatre Benefit for Fresh Air Fund Today.

A hospitable welcome and bountiful dinner was given by the ladies of Emerald Grove at their meeting on Thursday, June 29th. Most of the members went on the regular train on the St. Paul road at 10:45, but a large number were overland by carriages or motor. Dinner was served at one o'clock in the church hall, and was most delightful, both in menu and service. The tables were decorated with baskets of roses and pansies. About twenty-five took dinner and a most enjoyable social hour was passed afterward in the church parlors.

At two o'clock the regular program was opened by the singing of "America," led by Mrs. J. R. Nichols, with Miss Jones at the piano. Mrs. Nichols also sang "Love's Old Sweet Song," and led in a closing hymn, "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

The president of the club, Mrs. Dunn of Milton, presided at the meeting and the secretary, Mrs. O. D. Bates, was also present. The regular routine business was transacted, ladies answering to roll call from Milton, Orfordville, Magnolia, Fulton, Afton and Footville, besides those from Janesville and Emerald Grove. Two new names were voted into the club.

A report was given by Mrs. Kimberley on the finances resulting from the dinner at the Y. M. C. A. building on June 1st, for the benefit of the local rest room. A plea was also made by Mrs. George Russell for the philanthropic branch of the club's work—the annual entertainment of the fresh air children from Chicago. She said that arrangements had been made this year for them to come on July 10th and that twenty-seven children were offered free board, and many other places secured where they would be taken if board was paid.

Mention was also made of the generous offer of Manager Zanias of the Apollo theatre for the free benefit to day (Friday) for both afternoon and evening, to help out the club's finances. It was hoped by this means to liquidate an outstanding debt of the club and also to help finance the caring of the fresh air children. The play "Still Waters," with Marguerite Clark as star, and is a charming, wholesome little play.

The literary program of the afternoon, took the audience to California and back, with a comprehensive view of the two expositions, Mrs. Percy Munger giving the outward trip with a description of the Grand Canyon seen in the snow and fog of a winter's day. The journey across the salt deserts and the shallows of the great Salt Lake, with the arrival at Los Angeles and the many pleasures to be experienced by a sojourn in that city. Mrs. H. D. Murdoch gave a very good idea of the general plan and architecture of the exposition at San Francisco, with its wonderful color scheme. She spoke of the tower of jewels with its 120,000 cut gems of every color and its brilliant lighting effects, of the different courts with their several groups of statuary, and the constant array of beautiful flowers and growing shrubbery everywhere in the exposition was described as the only one ever held during all the year. Its many beautiful features in direct contrast to those at San Francisco were given in a vivid picture.

The return trip from California was described by Mrs. C. V. Kerch, who gave in a charming way, interesting accounts of the Texas desert, the imperial valley and the southern sights to be seen at Galveston, Houston, San Antonio and New Orleans.

A day's visit at Vicksburg was characterized as being the most momentous of the whole trip. The program closed by the reading of five helpful suggestions by Mrs. E. Duthie, who also gave a delightful breakfast. The next meeting of the club will be held at Milton on July 13.

STATE EXAMINATIONS FOR PLUMBERS ARE SCHEDULED

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Madison, Wis., June 30.—State examinations for candidates for master and journeyman plumbers' licenses will be held next month in three cities—Superior, on July 13; Oshkosh, on July 12 and Racine, on July 14. The council chamber of the city hall at Racine will be used, and at Racine the headquarters will be the continuation school, Third and Main streets. About fifty candidates have applied. The state board of health is notifying all candidates at which city they are to appear.

PROGRESS REPORTED IN TOBACCO FIELDS

Favorable Weather Aids Growers in Transplanting—Predict Work Finished by July First.

This week's weather conditions were more favorable than at any time during the month, and the work of transplanting the 1916 tobacco crop progressed rapidly. Although the sunlight caused some wilting of the plants, there is still enough moisture in the soil so that a resetting will not be necessary. In some localities a shortage of plants is reported, due to over-sized plants and rotting in the beds. The chances are, however, that there are enough suitable plants to supply the intended acreage in each community, for there has been a noticeable lack of cut worms and other insects that bring damage to the crops. It is predicted that with the exception of a few belated growers, the transplanting work will be finished by July 1st. The outlook for a good crop is favorable.

J. B. Killbrow, government statistical agent on tobacco, visited the state this week, coming directly from the Connecticut valley and reported that the planting was as far along here as it was in New England. He remarked that the hindrance from the early bad weather had been practically overcome.

NEWS NOTES from MOVIELAND

Announcement is made of the release of a six-part film allegory, "Purity," featuring Audrey Munson, famous artist's model and international beauty, on July 1st.

The story is taken from Greek mythology. Purity wanders over the earth exerting a good influence on everything. She is loved by a struggling poet who idolizes her. They both love, but he is unable to sell his poetry and marriage is impossible because of his poverty. Purity's wonderful beauty and grace of body are seen by an artist who gets her to pose for an allegorical painting. She does it to get money that her sweetheart's poems may be published. She is successful and the lovers are happily united.

The allegorical characters, Evil, Beauty, Art, Music and Drama all play important roles in this remarkable photoplay. Prominent in the supporting Miss Munson are Eugene Forde, Nigel de Brullier and William Carroll. There are numerous ballets which add to the ancient atmosphere to the action of Purity.

WHY WILLIAMS ISN'T ON SCREEN

Earle Williams, the star who won favor in "My Official Wife," "Lady's Slipper," "The Juggernaut," "The Signs of Mothers" and "The Goddess," has received hundreds of letters of inquiry as to the reason of his non-appearance on the screen in the newer productions. For the past six months Mr. Williams has been working on a serial by C. N. and A. M. Williams, which was originally intended for release during the latter part of last May. But unfortunate weather conditions during the winter months held up the work, extending the time of production which will be in mail work on his part well into summer. The serial is now scheduled for release in September.

There is no limit to a screen star's ambition. Ann Pennington, now a star on the program, wants to be able to act like Sarah Bernhardt and save the likes of Harry Lauder. Her first part on the screen will be that of "Susie Snowflake" in the production of the same name.

Marguerite Courtot, star, believes because of his inadvertent use of liquor, and his ultimate redemption at the hands of a girl of the slums. Charles Murray will be seen in a comedy, "Love's Riot."

Whitewater News

Whitewater, June 30.—Mrs. E. O. Root, L. E. Root and Miss Margaret Root motored here from Bemidji, Minn. They came by way of Beloit and brought Mrs. S. W. Verran and daughter for a short visit at M. E. Root's.

Prof. A. Arnold of the University at Fargo, N. D. made his parents a short visit here Wednesday.

Viva Jolliffe is visiting Miss Florence Redding at Corner Grove.

Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Thayer of Palmyra and Mr. and Mrs. John Weiss from Dakota visited at A. A. Coburn's yesterday.

Mrs. A. Talbert and daughter, visited at Janesville Wednesday. Floyd Jolliffe were visitors at Camp Douglas yesterday.

George Bonnett and Lawrence Bonnett have come to Stevens Point by motor to attend the reunion of the Andrews family.

J. C. Bloodgood of Harvey, Ill., was here to attend the funeral of his brother, S. W. Bloodgood, Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kitzman and family, and Mrs. Clarence Taft, motored to Lancaster the first of the week to visit Mrs. and Mrs. Clyde Taft and Mr. and Mrs. Clifton.

J. P. Thiele has been recalled into the militia and has been given special duty with orders to enlist fifty recruits.

He has been given the rank of lieutenant and is working in Elkhorn, Delavan, Lake Geneva and Burlington this week. As none of these cities have little companies he should not have hard work in enlisting the fifty men.

Charles Pose has sold his meat market to W. F. Bowers of Milton Junction, who has taken possession. Mr. Pose has been in the business many years and deserves a vacation.

Stanley Gray, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Gray, has joined the Co. C, Ohio engineers at Cleveland, Ohio.

The Whitewater baseball team goes to Watertown Sunday to play the league team of that city.

Spring time is moving time. If you have a house to rent, let it be known through a Gazette want ad.

AT THE APOLLO.

Marguerite Clark Tonight.

The ladies of the Economic club will have charge of the attraction at the Apollo tonight which will consist of several vocal numbers by local talent and the Paramount feature, "Still Waters" in which Marguerite Clark plays so charmingly. This photoplay was seen here some time ago but it is such a captivating story that it will continue to please as often as it is shown.

In this remarkable combination of pastoral romance and a gripping drama, Marguerite Clark has the happy opportunity yet afforded her of displaying her wonderful versatility. Already acknowledged as superb in the art of screen coquetry and generally recognized as one of the most winsome little misses in motion pictures, Miss Clark, by her tremendous powers as a dramatic actress, will add to her merits as a photoplayer. It is seldom that a young actress who gains popularity as an ingenue arises to any considerable heights in emotional expression. Therefore the performance of Miss Clark in "Still Waters" is one of the most notable of recent screen achievements.

Folp's Little Money Saving Scheme

It was late when Ralph finished the extra work that took him to the office in the evening, and when he reached his home the house was dark. He unlocked the door, took the key and dropped into his chair to flush the cigar he was smoking. The subject of the dress to be worn to Mrs. Jaynes' reception again came into his mind. Business cares had crowded everything else out, but now he began to wonder what he could do to prevent it from carrying out her intention of spending a lot of money in having a very pretty dress made over to wear. When he remembered the debt into his chin he could have no doubt that his objection to the more determined to have her way. What could he do?

If I could put the dress where she could not find it for several days it would then be too late to have the alterations made, he thought. The idea pleased him and he determined to try to put it into effect. When he entered the room Ethel was asleep, leaning to the left, her head resting on her hand. He slipped the dress in its pretty sheath out of the closet and hung it in the storeroom behind some boxes, then slipped quietly into bed.

Several evenings later at the table she said: "I do not think you need worry about my having the silk dress made over; it has disappeared."

He looked at her searchingly. Was his treacher or did she have an idea that he had hidden it?

"What would you do in that case, stay at home?" she asked.

"No, indeed," she replied promptly. "I may have to buy a ready-made one. I have to do that; they can be spotted every time."

"You have probably mislaid it. You never know where anything is. Why not wear your white silk? That is a very pretty dress," he continued.

"It is far too long. That alone would announce to all informed persons that it was nearly a year old."

"It is too late to have the pink one made over, is it not?" There was hope in his tone. "If she says it is, I will put the thing back in the closet," he thought.

"Ralph Gordon, you know where that dress is," I suspected as much; now I see it. Ethel rose and ran around to her husband's chair, and smiled up into her pretty face.

"I am not in the habit of hiding my clothes; why suspect me of this?" she asked.

"You look guilty. You are such a give yourself away. Ethel's tone was sober now. You did not want me to hide it so that I could not do it."

"Well, what then?" Ralph decided to throw himself on the mercy of the enemy, especially as the enemy was uncommonly good natured.

"Will you promise not to spend any money if I produce the dress?" he asked.

"Well, yes, as it is too late to have the alterations made that I planned, but I shall be on the lookout for your schemes next time." She pinched his ear and rose, saying, "Get the dress; I want to try it on."

(To be continued.)

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

By MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Letters may be addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a man twenty-six years old and I have got myself into a mess when I ought to have known better. For over a year I have been with the girl I love, but I do not think I loved her or that she loved me, but we were very good friends and congenial. Then she met a friend of hers who is pretty and not as prettier than she, but of a different style of beauty. The first girl has a beauty that grows on one. Well, I started going with the second girl and paid her more attention than my first friend. My first friend seemed to be glad that I liked the other girl and didn't suppose my going with her at all. The other girl, however, for granted that I liked her better than my first friend and became unreasonable when I talked about it or when I saw her. I hate to drop her because she is sensible and I would not like to hurt her feelings.

While I have been having my good time, my first friend has been enjoying herself too. Now when I ask to come to see her she is very busy and can't come as often as I would like to. And when I do go we don't seem to be as close friends as we used to be. I would like to remove the past three months from my life and go back where I was before I met the second girl. What would you advise me to do? I have every reason to think that the second girl loves me and the first does not. That makes the situation especially difficult.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) When a girl goes to church with a boy who should go down the aisle first, the boy or girl?

(2) If some people the girl knows sit in the same pew should she introduce the boy to them?

(3) Should the girl put money in the collection plate when she lets the boy put enough in for both?

ARLINE.
(1) The girl should go down the aisle first and the boy should follow her.

(2) To promote the feeling of good-fellowship in the church it would be well to introduce them.

(3) It is all up to her to put money in if she wants to, but it isn't necessary.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Last winter I fell down and hurt the end of my spine and I have been treating ever since. My doctor is a man about forty years old, but he is nice looking and very attentive. I am seventeen. He is married, but I do not think he is happy. He has no children and his wife is very gossip. The doctor has liked me ever since I was a little girl, but now he has fallen in love with me. He wants me to take more treatments than I really need so that I will get strong faster. What shall I do like him, but I know it is not right for me to let him have me. I am afraid to tell my mother and I know that she will not let me stop taking treatments unless I give her some reason. Please advise me.

YOUNG LADY.
Tell your mother the truth. After you have once started to tell her you won't find it hard. It is certainly not right for you to continue to receive treatments from the doctor and if you do, it will be to the detriment of your character.

Dear Mrs. Thompson. I have heard that the continued use of olive oil on a wart will make it disappear. Is that so? I have a large wart between my fingers and it is very annoying.

YOUNG LADY.
I have never heard of using olive oil. One or two applications of nitric acid on the wart will remove it. Put the acid on with a brush and absorb cotton on the end of a toothpick.

Household Hints

CANNING AND PRESERVING.

To Can Strawberries and Cherries Together.—This makes a delicious sauce, much richer than when they are canned separately, as they are especially fine in making fruit and fruit ice cream. After picking over and cleaning the fruit have a nice rich syrup and a quart of strawberries, let them come to a boil and add five minutes, or until you think they are thoroughly heated through. Have cans sterilized, then fill the jars with the fruit and seal up tight. Before putting away tighten the covers again so that no air can get in.

SURPRISE BOX.
For those who go to camp or country with young children it is none too early to begin the "surprise box," a nice, out come in making fruit and fruit ice cream. After picking over and cleaning the fruit have a nice rich syrup and a quart of strawberries, let them come to a boil and add five minutes, or until you think they are thoroughly heated through. Have cans sterilized, then fill the jars with the fruit and seal up tight. Before putting away tighten the covers again so that no air can get in.

CLEAN BRASS.
To clean brass chandeliers, jewelry or anything brass and make them look like new, use gasoline on a flannel cloth, rub hard, then polish with a dry flannel.

COCONUT CAKE.—Mix one cup butter and one cup sugar. Take four eggs well beaten; add one cup milk; then add 4 1/2 cups flour with three teaspoons baking powder. Last, add one cup grated coconut. These ingredients will make five or six layers of cake.

ROLLED WAFERS.—One-fourth cup butter, one-half cup powdered sugar, one cup milk, seven-eighths cup bread flour, one-half teaspoon vanilla. Cream butter, gradually add sugar, then milk, flour and flavoring, and spread in very thin sheet on buttered tin. Bake in moderate oven, using a spatula or thin knife to spread batter. Mark in three-inch squares and bake very slowly until all delicate brown. Remove pan from oven, turn wafers upside down, dry, separating, and roll quickly into cylinder or cornucopia form. If cornucopia form, may be filled with sweetened, flavored whipped cream.

TO MAKE ALMOND WAFERS.—Sprinkle with finely chopped almonds, sprinkle with ginger wafers, add one-half teaspoon ground ginger, for lemon wafers, add one-half teaspoon lemon juice, for orange wafers, add grated rind of one-half orange; for rose wafers, add a bit of vegetable coloring and one-half teaspoon rosewater. For chocolate wafers, use two ounces chocolate and half the quantity of butter. Cream the butter, add to it sugar and melted chocolate, then finish as above.

CHOCOLATE CAKE.—Cream one-third cup butter, add gradually one cup sugar, add one-fourth cup cocoa and three yolks of eggs; beat again, add one-half cup milk and beat five minutes. Have ready two cups of bread flour sifted three times with two teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon cinnamon and one-fourth teaspoon nutmeg. Add to above mixture and beat again. Add to previous to making cake put one-half cup raisins to soak in two tablespoons of fruit juice. Add to cake with one-third cup walnut meats, one teaspoon vanilla. Beat the whites of eggs stiff and add last. Bake in deep cake tin one hour in moderate oven. Frost with white icing containing chopped raisins, or chocolate icing containing walnut meats chopped.

LEMON SPONGE.—Two lemons (grated rind and juice), four eggs, eight tablespoons sugar, one-half cup lemon juice, sugar and yolks of eggs get together and let come to a boil; stir to prevent burning. Beat whites stiff, add boiled mixture, beat all together good, set on ice to cool. Only take a few minutes to make and very cooling on a hot day.

SHAVINGS.—Two pounds flour, one pound sugar, three-fourths pound of melted butter, six eggs, grated peel of one lemon. After it is all stirred up, put it about one-sixteenth inch thick on a buttered cake pan. Bake ten minutes, take out of oven and cut while hot in strips 1 1/2 inches wide and eight inches long. Put it around a rolling pin quickly and let it get cool.

LEMON CUSTARD PIE.—One large lemon (grated rind), a little water, two cups of sugar, lump butter size of an egg, four tablespoons cornstarch. Stir all together and add four cups boiling water; stir all the time until it comes to a boil and looks like cornstarch. Beat yolks of four eggs and stir into it after taken from stove. Put in crust that has been well baked. Use whites of eggs for top. This will make four pies.

TIMELY TIPS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

COOKING GREEN VEGETABLES.

(Prepared for the Gazette by Abbie L. Merrill, Home Economics department of the University of Wisconsin.)

If we think of vegetables in terms of the 85 per cent to 95 per cent of water diluted with color, flavor and small amount of solids, then the price of water masquerading as vegetables seems high.

But, if we think of the need for a better appetite and keep the body in good health the purchase of the vegetables, in season, will seem less costly than tonics from the drug store.

It is most important when preparing vegetables to save the portion which gives flavor and that which provides the mineral matter needed by the body. At least 20 per cent of iron required by the body has its source in vegetables.

Experiments have shown that flavor and mineral matter are lost in less greater measure when these vegetables are cooked in too much water which is later thrown away. It is best to use as little water as possible in boiling green vegetables and to keep this watery later in soups or sauces.

The loss of mineral matter from vegetables through boiling may be as high as 36 per cent in spinach, celery, cabbage, brussels sprouts, cauliflower, carrots, and more than 6 per cent when these same vegetables are steamed.

Flavor, when its source is from a product which is readily given off in steaming, may be retained by cooking at temperatures below the boiling point. It is for this reason that peas, asparagus, celery, cucumbers and carrots should be cooked at simmering temperatures.

Strong flavor may be lessened by cooking rapidly in open vessels. This is true of cabbage, cauliflower, onion, and pepper. Cabbage may be "cooked" at the end of twenty minutes. Longer time develops strong flavor and, in hard water, may darken the color.

Those fresh green vegetables which consist of leaves and stems may be steamed; or may be cooked without added water if heat is applied slowly, causing the water in the leaves to escape in such amounts that the plant cooks in its own juices.

Delicately flavored vegetables, as peas, string beans, squash, and rutabagas, may be served in their own juices, seasoned only by salt, pepper, and butter. Brussels sprouts are improved in flavor if cooked in meat broth made as for soup stock, or in water flavored with bouillon cubes.

Carrots, celery, cucumbers and summer squash may be improved in appearance and flavor by first cooking in water, then draining and covering with white sauce.

The green vegetables are cheapest in the season of the year when they are most needed by the human body. But these days when the expense is far beyond the benefits to be derived from their excessive use. Canned vegetables then should take their place, even though the flavor and mineral matter may not be so satisfactory.

HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

The Gazette is pleased to announce that arrangements have been completed so that in future letters may be addressed direct to Dr. Wm. Brady, 1008 Lake St., Elmhurst, N. Y., and they will be answered by him in person within six hours from the time he receives them.

Address your letters to Dr. Wm. Brady, 1008 Lake St., Elmhurst, N. Y. THIS IS THE DAY OF MINOR WOUNDS.

No salve should soil a minor wound sustained in the summer time on the street. The principal danger in trifling wounds is lockjaw, and nothing will insure the development of lockjaw so certainly as smearing salve over a fresh wound. The salve protects lockjaw germs which may perchance be in the wound.

Lockjaw germs are usually present in the intestinal canal of domestic animals, and hence pollute the ground around the house, the street, or wherever animals may run. These too, lockjaw germs are sometimes present in the material of which firecrackers are made. The toy pistol is famous as an instrument of inoculation with lockjaw.

First aid for any cut, scratch, puncture or wound should be one thorough swabbing of the wound and thorough skin with pure tincture of iodine. If any foreign material is in the wound it must be immediately removed by all means. The wound had better be left uncovered until medical service can be had. If a game wider iodine, it may be gently drawn together with a strip of two of adhesive plaster. As soon as possible the victim should be taken to a physician for injection of lockjaw germ. This is a great mental comfort. The serum has never failed to prevent lockjaw when administered immediately after an accident.

A very small wound had better be dusted over with clean talcum or other simple powder and not bandaged or covered from the air. Air is especially objectionable to lockjaw germs. So is sunlight. Expose the surface to sunlight as much as possible to encourage the healing process and discourage bacterial activity.

Once a wound is clean, then it may be covered over with a bit of clean gauze (scrubbed cheesecloth or muslin) a thin layer of cotton, and a snug bandage, and left undisturbed for four days.

Will anything other than an operation permanently cure chronic appendicitis? Answer—No. Surgery is the only remedy.

both extremely delicate. She had to face not only the problem of keeping the small income her husband had left her, but also that of guarding the fragile health of these two children.

And Now They Are Healthy Women. Today the girls are healthy young women, happily married, and the mothers of strong, healthy children. The old family doctor, who watched and helped in the long fight that brought these girls from delicate youth to healthy maturity, called on their mother the other day.

They talked over old times and he said, "I think you should be very proud for I don't believe any other woman I know could have brought those children up. I never expected to see them live, and only a few years ago you were so sick. Do you wonder that that mother feels as if she received a decoration?"

My Washerwoman Also Was Decorated. My washerwoman came to me one day with a radiant face. "The doctor has written and asked me to bring Ruth in town," she said. "They want to show her to some of the people that don't believe the treatment will cure and won't stick to it. They say she's such a wonderful example that she'll give other folks courage. I'll be there, though, those days when I'm judging her in my arms that everything could come out so happy."

Ruth is her little girl. She had hip disease. For years her mother carried her (then a child of four) to the hospital in her arms, heavy brace and all, every week. Today she is a perfectly healthy, normal child.

A light radiance shone from her mother's face. She too had been decorated. What a Twelve-Year-Old Heroine Did in a certain school a medal is given each year for the most heroic deed done by any pupil. Last year it went to a little girl of twelve who, after the death of her father, kept the family from being sent to an asylum. A brother, slightly older, supplied the family income, and the girl managed the house, took care of the younger children and kept up with her studies. She was greatly surprised at receiving the medal. She did not realize that she had done anything heroic.

Most of them—the heroes and heroines of daily life—never do realize. Can't you just imagine how surprised they'll be some day when the Great King says, "Well done," and they find themselves most honored than some of the great of the earth?"

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. I have what doctors call grapevine tubercular glands in my neck. They have operated on me four times, taking a lot of them out. Now I have a hard lump under my left ear and I fear it is coming back again. I live carefully, take gymnastic work, and follow the doctor's every rule. Is the trouble transmitted to children? I am physically strong and healthy, but I can't get rid of this scrofula.

Answer—You should try the open air life, perhaps tuberculin, and certainly sun baths. The disease is not inherited. Be in no hurry for further operations.

Will anything other than an operation permanently cure chronic appendicitis? Answer—No. Surgery is the only remedy.

With a groan in his own heart was sweeping out the office the next morning, and as Howard suddenly appeared before him he shrank back as if alarmed. Indeed, he turned pale and leaned on the counter, dropping his broom to the floor and awkwardly bending down to recover it.

"What is the matter?" Howard asked, with a smile. "Do I look as tough as all that?"

"Why—why?" Sugar stammered as he continued to stare open-eyed—"I thought—we all thought that you—some said you'd left on the midnight train."

"Left? Where to?" Howard asked, his astonishment growing.

"I don't know," Sugar was still pale and wore the disturbed air of a man unable to meet a delicate situation.

"But the report is out that the sheriff said you'd left. Him and the town marshal was down here together when I got up half an hour ago. They— they asked me if you slept here last night, and when I went up and looked to satisfy them and found that your bed hadn't been used and told them so they said you must have taken a train here at midnight or gone through the woods and mountains to get to the other end."

Howard's indignation was rising. "Did they think that I would actually leave the country?" he demanded. "Is there a man in this town fool enough to think that I would do all that to avoid meeting Fred Craig? I refuse to believe it. Tom, I'm not a coward. I've never been accused of it."

"I don't know anything about it," Sugar was still quite bewildered, and in angry impatience Howard ascended the stairs to his room. Entering it, he was about to bathe his face and hands when a colored chambermaid suddenly entered, and, seeing him in the light from the window, she uttered a sharp scream and beat a hasty retreat down the corridor. "What could it all mean?" he asked himself as he changed his clothing. Surely they were acting queerly.

Going down to breakfast at the first sound of the gong, he was met by other surprises. He saw Mrs. Langham in animated conversation with Sugar at the dining room door. Seeing him face to face, she started, bowed hastily and turned away as if anxious to avoid him. At the table, as he sat waiting for his breakfast to be brought, he noticed that the three waiters, with their heads together on one side of the room, seemed to be deliberating as to which should take his order, and when finally one of them came he seemed to act more stiffly and awkwardly than was a waiter's habit. And when the food was being brought in Howard noticed that the cook and a couple of dishwashers were peering in at him curiously, but on catching his eyes they at once disappeared.

Further perplexities were before him, for when he had eaten his breakfast and was going out he saw Abner Daniel talking to Sugar in the office. There was no mistaking the fact that Abner was disturbed. Howard had never seen such a woe-begone expression on the cheerful old countenance as his friend turned upon him.

"I heard you'd come back, and thought I'd stop by to see you," Abner's voice shook. "Of course, at a time like this—"

"At a time like what?" Howard asked, fixing Abner with an impatient stare.

"Why, why, you see"—Abner began, but he went no further, for several drummers, leaving the dining room, had gathered around and were gazing boldly and curiously at Howard. "Let's go down to the office," Abner suggested, laying his hand on his friend's arm. "Our talk must be more private. I don't know how much time we've got either, and the sooner we understand what is best to do the better it will be. Time is valuable."

"You seem to be crazy like all the rest," Howard said impatiently as they went out into the street and started down to the office. Just then they saw Pole Baker on horseback, and he reined in at the sidewalk.

"I had started down to see you, Uncle Abner," he said, smiling. "—" know Howard was here. So many false reports are in the wind—hundreds of lies mixed up with it. I'll put up my horse and come down. You kin both count on me. What's done is done, and that ain't no use cryin' over split milk. I've got to git to work and face the thing."

"Another fool!" Howard said angrily. "For God's sake, what is the matter with you all?"

Abner was in such deep thought that he failed to hear what Howard had said. However, when they had reached the office and found themselves alone Howard demanded, fiercely:

"Tell me what is the matter? Why are you all acting this way?"

Abner bent a startled gaze on him. Without a word he stared steadily for a moment, then he faltered: "We must understand each other, Howard. Do you intend to—do you intend to deny all knowledge of it? Have you reflected and decided to—take that course?"

"Good God, what is the matter with you?" Howard repeated. "Come to the point. I'm tired of all this blasted tomfoolery. You all act as if I were a wild beast escaped from a cage."

For another moment Abner continued to stare, then he suddenly took a deep breath, and his eyes lighted up as from faint hope.

"Howard, my boy, didn't you know that Fred Craig was shot and killed on his horse at his own gate last night?"

"Killed—shot?" Howard gasped. Daniel laid his hand on Howard's shoulder. He bore down on it affectionately and hopefully. "Look me in the eyes, my boy," he said, with emotion, his lips quivering. "I know you won't keep back anything from me, and the truth is important. Did you do it? Forgive me, but so many things point that way."

The next morning Abner was up with the dawn. Indeed, he had slept little through the night and was feeling the ill effects of it. He saw Pole Baker walking briskly along the road from the village.

"What you been so early?" Abner asked.

"I stayed in town," Pole answered. "I sat up with Howard in his room till after midnight."

"I'm glad you kept 'im company," Abner said, plaintively.

"I had to stay," Pole said. "It looks like everything in town is actually afraid of 'im, an' he's noticed it. Frank Raymond and some other boys dropped in, but they had little to say, an' all but Frank looked as if they believed Howard was lying. What's friendship in time of real trouble? Not worth a hill of beans."

Abner leaned on the bars, sliding his strong thumb nail under a splinter, slowly prying it off and putting it between his tobacco stained and blunted teeth. "I've been bothered about the grand jury," he said. "I wonder if it will act. If an actual arrest is made it will go hard with the poor boy."

"It is sure to come an' early today," Pole replied.

"You think so?" Abner said despondently.

"Not the slightest doubt of it," Pole went on. "In fact, Howard was watched close all last night. The front and back doors of the hotel was guarded by the sheriff and his deputy."

"How do you know that?" Abner asked.

"I see 'em; so did Howard. We took a little walk, an' they followed us. Howard looked pale, an' I thought the fresh air would do 'im good. As I came away this mornin' I met the sheriff on the back porch. I know 'im well. I legged for 'im in his election, an' he would do me a favor if it come his way. He knows how I like Howard, too, an' I stopped an' told 'im I was sure Howard wasn't the man, an' both him an' the deputy seemed astonished."

"What do you take me for? The sheriff axed. 'Didn't I hear Howard threaten to do it? An' wasn't he on the spot half an hour before the shot was fired with a loaded gun in his pocket?'"

"That's what they all say," Abner sighed. "His own father come over last night about bedtime to see me. I told 'im Howard was innocent, but it went in at one ear and out at the other."

Tells Her Experience To Benefit Others

Mrs. Dunlap Sends a Letter Addressed to the Readers of the Paper.

A sense of duty to others who might suffer as she had impelled Mrs. R. C. Dunlap, of Dekalb, Mo., to send the following signed statement to the St. Joseph, Mo., News Press:

"The readers of the News-Press, especially those suffering from gallstones, stomach troubles and appendicitis will find in Prutola and Traxo a permanent cure. After suffering for three years the most excruciating pain from gallstones I found this wonderful remedy and am now in perfect health and have been for almost four years. Never have any symptoms of the old trouble. I had been told by three doctors that nothing but an operation would save me. I know several who have undergone an operation but still have gallstones. This medicine is an oil which softens the stones and cures the liver. It can be bought at any drug store."

LARGE CONSIGNMENT OF WISCONSIN LEAF WILL BE EXPORTED

F. G. Borden Company Will Ship
Trainload of Tobacco Shortly for Export to Holland.

Within the next two months Janesville will have shipped one million two hundred and fifty thousand pounds of tobacco, approximately one thousand carloads, to the neighborhood of a hundred cars to transport to the Atlantic seaboard for transshipment to a Holland port.

The tobacco is being prepared for foreign shipment by the F. G. Borden company, having been stored for some months in the old Monitor automobile works. This is the second shipment of the season, the first having been sold to foreign firms within the last two months, a previous shipment by the same company, the F. G. Borden company, having been sent to Amsterdam, for a large Dutch tobacco importing firm.

The present shipment has been purchased by agents of the Heinrich Seiberger company of Holland, and while shipped to Holland will probably find its way indirectly into the various European countries. It has been gathered in Janesville from all parts of the state, and the tobacco, which is a hundred hands will have two months' work before it is ready for its first step in the long journey.

At the present time the embargo on exportation of tobacco from the railroad view of the movement of troop trains, will handicap the actual shipment, but it is expected that the last will be in the New York market within the time limit set by the purchasing agents. For foreign shipment the weed requires particular handling which makes the work a little more complicated than for shipments within the United States only.

NEW UNIFORMS GIVEN TO THE COAST GUARDS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Milwaukee, June 30.—The call of Dame Fashion hit the members of the Milwaukee coast guard crew at the water line today. The life savers received their new uniforms from the government. The new working uniforms are of olive drab and also the dress uniform. A third uniform is of blue. New uniforms are sent to all coast guard stations on the Great Lakes.

PASSENGERS ESCAPE RAILROAD ACCIDENTS

Employees and Trespassers Are Those More Frequently Mentioned In Reports to Commission.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Madison, Wis., June 30.—One of the noticeable things about the number of railroad accidents reported to the Wisconsin railroad commission weekly is that while employees and trespassers are killed and injured every week, there are few accidents to passengers.

During the past week three people were injured at Jefferson, when the Northwestern train struck a wagon crossing the track. An unidentified man was struck and killed by a Northwestern train at Mercer; Jeffrey Jackman, a trespasser, had one foot cut off when he attempted to board an Omaha train at Spooner; a Milwaukee train struck a team and wagon at Horicon, killing the horses and injuring the driver and John Tiliak, a switchman, was fatally injured at Green Bay, on the Northwestern road.

Only two derailments were reported during the past week, one on the Northwestern road in Milwaukee and the other on the Omaha road at Mondovi. The loss was small in each case.

WISCONSIN CHIROPRACTIC ASSOCIATION IN MEETING

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Pond du Lac, Wis., June 30.—The sixth semi-annual meeting of the Wisconsin Chiropractic association opened here today. Acting Mayor Pecke opened the convention with an address of welcome this morning. D. J. Palmer of Davenport, Ia., will speak at a mass meeting tonight.

CONTESTS TO START AT THE PLAYGROUNDS

Ground Tournaments to Start on Playgrounds Next Week.—Swimming Will Begin in Two Weeks.

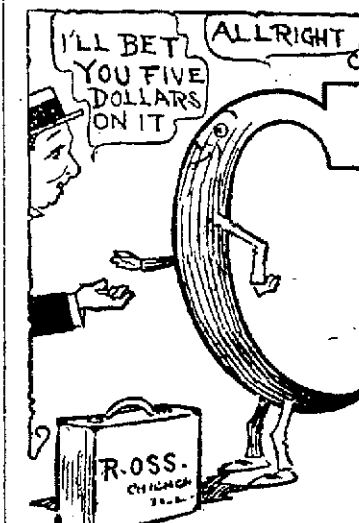

Next week will be a busy week for the children on the four playgrounds, as it has been decided by Director Curtis to start the ground tournaments to start the ground tournaments in tennis, volleyball and quoits will be started this week in order that the four directors can obtain the best children to represent the playgrounds in the inter-ground contests to be held later. The tennis tournaments will be held for both the boys and the girls. Each player will have the privilege of challenging the man above him at all times. In the percentage column, so that the best men will gradually work to the top. At the end of the year a tournament will be held in which the best players from each ground will participate.

Great interest is expected to be shown in the coming indoor baseball league. Tryouts for positions on the teams will start next week so the directors will be able to have their men in shape for the opening of the league during the second week in July.

Director Curtis has instituted a new idea this year which is expected to increase the interest in inter-ground activities. To the winner of each championship in any event a banner will be presented at the end of the year the school making the best showing in all the contests will be given a large banner to place on the school grounds.

If the weather continues warm it is hoped to have the swimming lessons at Goose Island start the second week in July. The water at the present time, while being cold is also very high, and makes the swimming impossible at the old place. Because of the failure to start the swimming season as soon as expected the playgrounds will be kept open in the mornings for the use of the children. As soon as the work starts at Goose Island, however, the grounds will be closed in the morning, but will be opened in the evening for the use of the older people.

The attendance has been very large this year on all the four plots. The directors are gradually organizing teams and getting the children under supervision with the result that by next week all the activities will begin in earnest. The average attendance on the four playgrounds for the last three days has been nearly one hundred and seventy-five.

Rising Sun Inn.
 Within easy walking distance of the old cathedral town of Chichester, England, is the Rising Sun, in North Bersted, a house of interest to all who collect stamps. This small inn contains a room every inch of which is covered with postage stamps. Ceiling, walls, doors, chairs, tables, picture frames, every part of the room, except the floor, is thickly covered, while from the ceiling hang long festoons and ropes, made of bundles of stamps for which there is no other place. Fully 2,000,000 stamps are pasted up, and 1,000,000 more hang in the festoons.—Popular Science Monthly.

NO MORE RED TAPE FOR FRANCE IN WAR

French Officials and Newspapers Show-Up Costly and Unnecessary Facts in Military Operation.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Paris, June 30.—Red tape in France was expected to crumble under the pressure of war, but it seems to show resisting powers quite equal to those of the armies, armor and concrete. The late General Gallieni vigorously assailed it and was thought to have made a big breach in its breastworks, at least in so far as concerned the war department. It, however, comes to light ever-day, however, showing that its principal strongholds are untouched.

Among the latest examples of what the French call "papierasse" is a morning paper produces a photograph showing a roll 8 1/2 yards long, made of sheets of official paper pasted together. It required the time of several clerks to make the roll. Upon these sheets duplicate entries of the balance of pay and meal indemnities due to the soldiers of a single company while on leave. What the same expenditure of effort would amount to in the entire army of several million men may be imagined but calculated with difficulty.

The service cites a case in which more than 600 postal and money orders for ten centimes (two cents) and twenty centimes (four cents), each accompanied by a note written by hand, were sent to the front. The commanding bases of army corps to soldiers who had been sent to the rear to work in munition factories at C—The officer in charge, who receives these postal orders at C—, from the different army corps, acknowledges receipt of each order, writes a new note, adds a new stamp and a new signature, then sends the order to the director of the postal service. The soldier is employed, the works director acknowledges receipt of the sums, enters them in a special register, after which the order is finally delivered to the soldier in exchange for a receipt and which receipt takes the inverse road and follows the different hierarchic stages until it gets back to the army corps. The soldier, provided with identifying papers, can then collect his two cents or four cents as the case may be, in exchange for another receipt, another signature and another stamp.

When the government recently intervened and fixed a maximum retail price of one franc 20 centimes for sugar, the expectation of further rise in the price of sugar, which had been expected to be about one franc 50 centimes, was shattered. The government, however, had been necessary to multiply the hospital staff several times to do this clerical work in addition to the complicated bookkeeping of the individual records made up for the personal file of each man brought into the hospital.

The Cr de Paris cites another case in which the red tape in the hands of people not expert with the minutiae of a circular from the sanitary department of an army corps informed the officers in command of different units that they were authorized to buy shoes for the men to be shipped from the rear at the minimum price of 20 francs; three days later a new circular cancelled the first and announced that it was a maximum price of 20 francs that was authorized; four days later a third circular cancelled both the others and announced that the authorization in question applied only to troops in fighting units actually at the front; result: a number of circulars, envelopes, written and forwarded, triple the number of officers commanding different units of an army corps of the entire forces behind the front.

It has often been stated that the deficiencies of armament, both in the army and navy, were largely the result of red tape or "Monsieur Le Bureau" as the French call the bureaucrats who resisted before the war and are still resisting any reform after the war.

It is estimated that there are still seven hundred and fifty thousand refugees and prisoners in Siberia. Many of these have been sent to remote places far away from the Trans-Siberian railway. American Red Cross workers are looking after prisoners in the Amur river district of Eastern Siberia. In the region west of Harbin the relief work is chiefly in the hands of the Swedish Red Cross. Workers of that organization are providing medical supplies and endeavoring to better the social conditions in prison camps.

ACCIDENTS INCREASE IN INDUSTRIAL BOOM

Work of Industrial Commission Almost Doubled on Account of Abnormal Business Conditions.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., June 30.—Prosperity, high wages and plenty of employment in Wisconsin industries have had a definite effect on the volume of work in the office of the Wisconsin industrial commission, which administers the workmen's compensation act and all other labor laws.

Figures for the month of June will show more than twice as many industrial accidents as June of last year. Last month, according to the commission records, 1,493 compensation cases were settled. In May of last year there were only 831. The commission statisticians say that there has been an increase of 64 per cent in the number of accidents reported in the first five months of 1916 as against the same period of 1915. This abnormal increase is, of course, explained by the existing abnormal industrial conditions. Factories are working night and day and in some cases three shifts are working where only one shift worked before the boom in war materials. Then, too, common unskilled labor is employed to an unusual extent with a large number of non-English speaking workers. Presence of workers who do not speak or understand English invariably lengthens the accident list. The factor of mental and physical fatigue must also be considered in connection with the accident hazard. All these things have combined to increase accidents.

There is not sufficient data to give an accurate picture of the proportion of accidents to the number of men employed is about the same. This is due to the "safety first" spirit in Wisconsin plants. It is only in Wisconsin that the great increase in accidents continues approximately to maintain an unchanged relation to the number of men employed.

FRANCE IS GUARDING ITS SUPPLY OF SUGAR CAREFULLY

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Paris, June 30.—Two hundred tons of American granulated sugar distributed daily to retail grocers in Paris has relieved a tension that was becoming acute, particularly because of the importance of sugar in the Frenchman's morning coffee.

When the government recently intervened and fixed a maximum retail price of one franc 20 centimes for sugar, the expectation of further rise in the price of sugar, which had been expected to be about one franc 50 centimes, was shattered. The government, however, had been necessary to multiply the hospital staff several times to do this clerical work in addition to the complicated bookkeeping of the individual records made up for the personal file of each man brought into the hospital.

HEAVY TAX PAID TO WEEDS EVERY YEAR

Pests Cut Down Yields, Cause Extra Work and Lower Price of Land.

Crop losses aggregating millions of dollars occur annually throughout the United States due to lack of efficient weed control. Immense areas are infested with weeds to an extent that makes it very advisable to carry on a determined warfare to eradicate them.

For many years those interested in permanent agriculture have considered the menace of weeds and have issued warnings against them. This early work dealt wholly with preventive measures, largely along the lines of seed inspection to insure clean seed.

Many owners of virgin soils have doubted if weeds could ever become seriously troublesome. The fears of the more foresighted, however, have been realized and there are now many farms in this country which have been abandoned because the weeds have multiplied and spread so rapidly that the owners have become discouraged and given up in despair. Noxious weeds are spreading at a rate which has alarmed those who are acquainted with the seriousness of the situation. There are many farms where 25 per cent of the crop-producing capacity has been destroyed by weeds. There is a great necessity of some concerted action for weed control and eradication with respect to two of the most widespread and serious weed pests.

Some Weeds Worse Than Others.

While there are many weeds which are proving troublesome on farms, there are two, according to R. A. Moore of the college of agriculture, which are preeminently noxious, particularly in Wisconsin and the north central states. These are quack grass and Canada thistle. These weeds are extremely difficult to eradicate because of their peculiar nature and habits.

Wild mustard has also become a very serious pest in the grain fields of many states, and in some sections is getting beyond the control of farmers using ordinary methods of eradication. Land values have deteriorated where the fields have become thickly seeded to mustard. Considerable effort has been expended by farmers in pulling the mustard plants when in full bloom at a time when the weed could be easily recognized in the grain fields, but when fields became badly infested this was a laborious task, and often was done at the expense of one-half or more of the crop.

Other weeds which are especially obnoxious are the sow thistle, star thistle, English plantain, ox-eye daisy, teardrop, dodder, and velvet leaf, and in many sections other weeds are serious.

Must Fight Quack Grass.

Mr. Moore describes quack grass as "a perennial plant living from year to year unless prevented by some unusual circumstances. It reproduces itself by means of seed and by means of the rootstocks. It is the rootstock which gives the plant its noxious character, as this must be killed to eradicate it and it possesses a great deal of vitality. At each joint new roots are thrown out and at any of them new stems start. In this way the grass spreads rapidly and a piece of the rootstock with one of these joints on it will produce a new plant, although it may not be over one-half inch long.

"The whole plant grows rapidly and ripens its seed usually in July and, where growing in meadows, may be gathered in the hay, from whence it gets into the manure to be scattered broadcast over the farm. If growing in grain it will be harvested and threshed with the grain, and if the grain is not graded with extreme care some of the quack grass will be sown on the fields the next year.

Canada Thistles Menace Farming. "Like quack grass, the Canada thistle is a perennial plant. In height it ranges from one to three feet, depending on conditions. Unlike quack grass it has no rootstocks, but is possessed of true roots, the parts of which are capable of producing plants. When undisturbed by cultivation, the roots are apt to lie near the surface, but go deeper in cultivated soils and where it is particularly loose and porous may be found at a depth of three feet.

"Canada thistles seldom bear seed in fields that are cultivated annually, but in those that are seeded down to clover or grasses, the seed is often produced abundantly the year after seeding. The increase of these pests, however, is due largely to the roots which spread out rapidly in all directions and are transplanted in widely distant portions of the farm by the plow, drag, and cultivator.

Eradication Means Work.

"Many methods have been devised and advocated for the eradication of quack grass and Canada thistles. The success of any method depends very largely upon soil and weather conditions and a method which has proven entirely successful under one set of conditions has frequently failed when used under somewhat different conditions. Quack grass is more persistent and more difficult to eradicate than the Canada thistle, hence any method which will eradicate the former will surely destroy the latter.

Cultivate and Follow One Year.

"This method can be used successfully except on wet or extremely porous soils. No crop can be grown during the year in which this treatment is being given. It consists of plowing deep enough to reach the horizontal roots, four times in a dry season, and oftener if the season is wet. In fact, plowing may probably be begun as soon as a crop is removed the preceding year.

"In the intervals between plowings the ground should be cultivated often enough to prevent all leaf growth. The spring tooth harrow makes an excellent tool for this purpose, but any exposure of the roots to the hot winds and glaring sunshine of summer rapidly kills them.

"This following method is more certain to result in complete eradication than any other which has been tried. It gets rid of the weeds with one year's work. The thorough cultivation of the soil leaves it in splendid condition, so that a much larger crop can be obtained the following year than would have been possible had the weeds remained, and the field will continue to bear good crops after the weeds are eliminated.

Can Use a Cultivated Crop. "Where quack grass or thistles are to be removed while a crop is being raised plowing should begin in the summer or autumn as soon as the former crop is removed, the earlier the better. This should be followed by careful cultivation until the ground freezes up. The next spring plowing should be done as soon as soil conditions permit and be continued at intervals of four weeks until the first of July.

"Between the plowings thorough cultivation should be practiced. On the date mentioned the seed bed should be carefully prepared and the land sown to millet or buckwheat at the rate of three pecks to the acre. The previous treatment will have so weakened the weeds that the millet or buckwheat gets well established before the weeds recover sufficiently to begin growth. Both of these crops grow rapidly and provide a dense shade underneath which the weeds cannot thrive.

"This method is almost sure death to Canada thistles, but often fails with quack grass and must be adopted aversively. It followed by plowing again in the fall after the crop is removed and by thorough cultivation the succeeding spring, all weeds would undoubtedly be killed. The advantage of this method over the first lies in the fact that it allows the production of a crop during the process of weed eradication. Its disadvantage is that it is not so certain to be successful."
